

www.montyhalls.co.uk

Looking for something different?

BBC television presenter and explorer Monty Halls has worked for over a decade in partnership with organisations large and small as a speaker of the highest quality

MONTYHALLS

www.montyhalls.co.uk

Looking for something different?

Testimonials...

“...Two standing ovations! Monty was excellent, relaxed and professional. Messages of effective leadership were well delivered in a fun and engaging manner... The audience loved Monty...”

(Virgin)

“...Monty spared time up-front to understand our business and our present challenges... to make the content of his leadership talk relevant to our delegates...”

(Vertex)

“...the best presentation I have ever seen. Truly, truly outstanding.”

(IBM)

“...His ability to entertain, engage, and inspire made a big impression... His life experiences and his ability to converse on such a wide range of subjects, coupled with his enthusiasm and wit, make him the perfect after dinner speaker. Monty is a true raconteur, incredibly grounded and a great bloke.”

(Nolio)

A good speaker can be the key to delivering outstanding results at your conference, meeting or event. Monty has a track record of excellence, and has consistently achieved rave reviews in over ten years of experience on the speaking circuit.

Monty will consult with your organisation at length to ensure the presentation - be it to a large conference or a small meeting - is precisely what is required.

Monty is a specialist in;

- Team dynamics
- Leadership
- Human performance
- Maintaining the aim in the most demanding of circumstances
- Operating in ever changing environments

Team Dynamics

Leadership

Human Performance

Maintaining the aim in the most demanding of circumstances

Operating in ever changing environments

About Monty...

A well known BBC presenter, Monty is also an ex-Royal Marines Officer, broadcaster, explorer and writer. For over twenty years in this capacity he has led international teams through some of the most demanding environments on earth.

He worked for Nelson Mandela as part of the peace process in South Africa, was awarded the Bish Medal for services to exploration, and for the last decade has specialised in delivering thought-provoking, relevant and highly amusing presentations about performing under stress.

Monty can also run corporate packages from his fully equipped base in the beautiful town of Dartmouth in Devon. This includes practical team building and leadership training on land and sea, exploring the Devon coastline and operating inland as far as Dartmoor. Bespoke itineraries are available on request.

MONTYHALLS

www.montyhalls.co.uk

Delivery of your event...

Monty is always open to ideas and suggestions on how to deliver the perfect presentation for your event. As a rough guide, the consultation process running up to an engagement generally adheres to the following lines:

1. Initial consultation: In the form of a phone call or detailed email exchange. This is a no obligation conversation where you can discuss your requirements with Monty, and he can offer some options for your event.
2. Initial proposal: Should you wish to explore these options further, Monty will forward an outline document to you with his suggestions for the event or presentation. Once again this is a no obligation stage of the process.
3. Initial meeting: If you wish to meet to discuss the presentation or event in more detail Monty is entirely happy to do so. Although this is once again a no obligation process, travel and daily rate will be charged for the meeting. Many clients choose to bypass this stage, and simply move onto the delivery of the presentation.
4. Delivery of presentation: This can either be in the form of a file on an ftp site, or physically as a disc or memory stick. This allows you to view the presentation for a suitable period before it is delivered at the event, and provide feedback as appropriate.
5. Event or presentation: The final stage is the presentation or event itself, delivered in the knowledge that you - the client - are entirely happy and fully briefed about the content and style.

This chain of delivery has produced consistently excellent results, and - most importantly - ensures that all parties involved are communicating throughout the planning stages.

If you would like to work with Monty then please don't hesitate to get in touch.

Email suze@montyhalls.co.uk or call 0117 9734096 or visit www.montyhalls.co.uk

Giant Ocean Sunfish photo – Robert Munns for Scubazoo
Front cover and speaker image – Bardsley Photography

